

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PLAN OF THE WORK

1. In cases of wedded pairs, that one which bears the Cowden-Gilliland blood, regardless of sex, is named first.
2. The numbered Charts are for the purpose of facilitating the tracing of genealogies.
3. The number of the chart on which the genealogy is found is indicated following the name of each member, as "C. 15," indicates that this person's name will be found on Chart No. 15, etc.

PREFACE

DEAR RELATIVES: We have been cultivating acquaintanceship through correspondence for a year, more or less, and have come to feel, as never before, that we are indeed members of one family, as in very truth we are. Our traditions, our marked facial resemblances, our family names, as, Robert, James, William, John, David, Joseph, Samuel, Speer, Mary, Margaret, Catharine, Elisabeth, Jennett, Isabel, and McChesney, found in nearly every home, all seem to point unerringly to the identity of our ancestry. Personally it has been a delight to the writer to collect and compile the necessary data for the work. At the first it was only contemplated to arrange in columns by generations on a wall-chart the probable three hundred or four hundred names; but as the nets were cast and the contents noted, behold, a multitude! fully four times as great as was expected! The small boat—the chart idea—was abandoned and a ship constructed to accommodate the larger company. The purpose, as you see from the plan, was, to accurately locate each individual member, with a glimpse at his home-life, profession or occupation, whether in Boston or San Francisco, Illinois or Mexico, so that he may be called at any time to the 'phone for a "Hello" chat or to the office for a letter. Thus each may be at all times in vital touch with every other member. If this has been accomplished, and if you are pleased, the writer has his reward.

ROBERT COWDEN.

INTRODUCTION

THE importance of genealogical research and of preserving intact family records, has never been more fully appreciated than at the present time, when so many societies exist to which one is eligible only through the merits of one's ancestors. We of the clan Cowden-Gilliland are greatly indebted to our good kinsman, Colonel Robert Cowden, who, with untiring zeal and infinite patience, has delved into the annals of the past and traced through devious and often intricate paths the numerous descendants of our ancestors, William Cowden<sup>1</sup> and James Gilliland<sup>1</sup>, and has given us the result in the pages before us. They, the ancestors, men of gentle birth but of intrepid spirit, dared to brave the perils of the deep and the dangers and hardships of life in a new and unknown country, to build a home in the wilderness and found a family whose branches should spread far and wide over all the land. Through all these families there has stood out in an unusual degree, honesty, sobriety, integrity of character, and fearlessness in the performance of duty. As we read this book and study the lives of those who have passed on, may we gather to ourselves only that which is beautiful, noble, and true, to pass on to the generations yet to come.

AN ULSTER BALLAD

By Sir Samuel Ferguson

Up in the mountain solitudes, and in a rebel ring,
He has worshiped God upon the hill, in spite of church and king;
And seal'd his treason with his blood on Bothwell bridge he hath;
So he must fly his father's land, or he must die the death;
For comely Claverhouse has come along with grim Dalzell,
And his smoking rooftree testifies they've done their errand well.

In vain to fly his enemies he fled his native land;
Hot persecution waited him upon the Carrick strand;
His name was on the Carrick cross, a price was on his head,
A fortune to the man that brings him in alive or dead!
And so on moor and mountain, from Lagan to the Bann,
From house to house, and hill to hill, he lurk'd an outlaw'd man.

At last, when in false company he might no longer bide,
He stayed his houseless wanderings upon the Collon side.
There in a cave all underground he lair'd his heathy den,
Ah, many a gentleman was fain to earth like hill-fox then.
With hound and fishing-rod he lived on hill and stream by day;
At night, betwixt his fleet greyhound and his bonny mare he lay.

It was a summer evening, and, mellowing and still,
Glenwhirry to the setting sun lay bare from hill to hill;
For all that valley pastoral held neither house nor tree,
But spread abroad and open all, a full, fair sight to see,
From Slemish foot to Collon top lay one unbroken green,
Save where in many a silver coil the river glanced between.

And on the river's grassy bank, even from the morning grey,
He at the angler's pleasant sport had spent the summer day;
Ah, many a time and oft I've spent the summer day from dawn,
And wonder'd, when the sunset came, where time and care had gone.
Along the reaches curling fresh, the wimpling pools and streams,
Where he that day his cares forgot in those delightful dreams.

His blithe work done, upon a bank the outlaw rested now,
And laid the basket from his back, the bonnet from his brow;
And there, his hand upon the Book, his knee upon the sod,
He fill'd the lonely valley with the gladsome Word of God:
And for a persecuted kirk, and for the martyrs dear,
And against a godless church and king he spoke up loud and clear.

And now upon his homeward way, he cross'd the Collon high,
 And over bush and bank and brae he sent abroad his eye;
 But all was darkening peacefully in grey and purple haze,
 The thrush was silent in the banks, the lark upon the braes—
 When suddenly shot up a blaze, from the cave's mouth it came:
 And trooper's steeds and troopers' caps are glancing in the same!

He crouched among the heather, and he saw them, as he lay,
 With three long yells at parting, ride lightly east away;
 Then down with heavy heart he came, to sorry cheer came he,
 For ashes black were crackling where the green whins used to be,
 And stretched among the prickly comb, his heart's blood smoking round,
 From slender nose to breast-bone cleft, lay dead his good greyhound!

"They've slain my dog, the Philistines! they've ta'en my bonny mare!
 He plunged into the smoking hole; no bonny beast was there—
 He grov'd beneath his burning bed (it burned him to the bone).
 Where his good weapon used to be, but broadsword there was none;
 He reel'd out of the stifling den, and sat down on a stone,
 And in the shadows of the night 't was thus he made his moan—

"I am a houseless outcast, I have neither bed nor board,
 Nor living one to look upon, nor comfort save the Lord;
 Yet many a time were better men in worse extremity,
 Who succour'd them in their distress, He now will succour me—
 He now will succour me, I know; and, by his holy name,
 I'll make the doers of this deed right dearly rue the same.

"My bonny mare! I've ridden you when Claver'se rode behind,
 And from the thumbscrew and the boot, you bore me like the wind;
 And, while I have the life you saved, on your sleek flank I swear,
 Episcopalian rowel shall never ruffle hair!
 Though sword to wield they've left me none—yet Wallace wight, I wis
 Good battle did on Irvine side wi waur weapon than this."

His fishing-rod, with both his hands he gripped it as he spoke,
 And, where the butt and top were spliced, in pieces twain he broke;
 The limber top he cast away, with all its gear abroad,
 But, grasping the thick hickory butt, with spike of iron shod,
 He ground the sharp spear to a point; then pull'd his bonnet down,
 And, meditating black revenge, set forth for Carrick town.

The sun shines bright on Carrick wall and Carrick Castle grey,
 And up thine aisle, St. Nicholas, has ta'en his morning way.
 And to the North-Gate sentinel displayeth far and near Sea, hill, and tower, and all thereon, in dewy freshness clear,
 Save where, behind a ruin'd wall, himself to view,
 Is peering from the ivy green a bonnet of the blue.

The sun shines red on Carrick wall and Carrick Castle old,
And all the western buttresses have changed their grey for gold;
And from thy shrine, Saint Nicholas, the pilgrim of the sky
Has gone in rich farewell, as fits such royal votary;
But, as his last red glance he takes down past black Slieve-a-true,
He leaveth where he found it first, the bonnet of the blue.

Again he makes the turrets grey stand out before the hill;
Constant as their foundation rock, there is the bonnet still!
And now the gates are open'd, and forth in gallant show
Prick jeering grooms and burghers blythe, and troopers in a row:
But one has little care for jest, so hard beset is he,
To ride the outlaw's bonny mare, for this at last is she!

Down comes her master with a roar, her rider with a groan,
The iron and the hickory are through and through him gone!
He lies a corpse; and where he sat, the outlaw sits again,
And once more to his bonny mare he gives the spur and rein;
Then some with sword, and some with gun, they ride and run amain!
But sword and gun, and whip and spur, that day they plied in vain.

Ah! little thought Willy Gilliland, when he on Skerry side,
Drew bridle first, and wiped his brow after that weary ride,
That where he lay like hunted brute, a cavern'd outlaw lone,
Broad lands and yeoman tenantry should yet be there his own—
Yet so it was; and still from descendants not a few
Draw birth and lands, and, let me trust, draw love of freedom, too.

CHAPTER I.

Antecedents of the Two Families

TRADITIONS OF THE COWDENS

First.—That the Cowden family was first known to history in Scotland. Of this there seems to be no doubt.

Second.—That they had a coat-of-arms indicating some distinction, either of wealth or nobility in the country. Authority for this statement is found in "Ancestry and Kin of the Cowden and Welch Families, 1904," by Rev. James Marcus Welch, of Indiana, Pennsylvania, page 134.

Third.—That in religious faith they were Presbyterians of the staunchest character. It is said of some of them that on the Sabbath the men discarded all headgear except caps of blue.

Fourth.—That at least some of them migrated to Ireland. The date is not known, but the writer ventures to suggest that the religious persecutions incident to the Reformation in Scotland in the times of John Knox, in the sixteenth century, was the probable date and the possible cause.

Fifth.—That some of the descendants of part of those who migrated to Ireland, later came to America, among whom was our ancestor, William Cowden (1), who settled on Fagg's Manor in Chester County, Pennsylvania.

These traditionary tales came to the writer chiefly through his late uncle, William Cowden (3), of Columbia, Pennsylvania, sixty-two years ago, and are here given entirely from memory for whatever they are worth to the reader. They seem to be strongly supported by the following from page 134 of "Ancestry and Kin of the Cowden and Welch Families."

"A rare old book in a Philadelphia library held the statement that 'One Thomas MacCowden removed from Scotland to Ireland and dropped the prefix "Mac." From him descended all the American Cowdens sprung from north Ireland stock.' This migration is undated, but may have been near 1600. Perhaps the place of their settlement was in Donegal, County Ulster, on or near Cunningham Manor, on the road from Londonderry to Letteskenney. It is said they were wealthy in lands. A large building used as a storehouse bore the name, 'The Cowden House.'

"The coat-of-arms given for the Pennsylvania Cowdens is identical with that in the line of James Cowden (1), and as belonging to the ancient Scotch Cowdens of an origin prior to the sixteenth century.

"James Cowden (1) was born in north Ireland in 1695, and was probably son of Thomas Cowden. He may have been a grandson of Thomas MacCowden, who removed from Scotland to Ireland."

All indications lead to the conviction that our ancestor, William Cowden (1), was brother to James Cowden (1), and therefore son of Thomas Cowden, and probably grandson of Thomas MacCowden. For these glimpses, let us be thankful.

"Cowden is the name of some old homestead or estate. The earliest trace of the name is found in the south of Scotland, where is a place called Cowdenbeath, not far from Edinburg.

The Cowden Coat-of-Arms.

"The coat-of-arms assigned to our first ancestral immigrant who came from the north of Ireland, is the same as the arms of the Scotch stock of Cowdens. In heraldic language, the Cowden arms are: 'Azure; fesse argent; three amulets or; lion passant sable. Crest; demi-lion sable, charged with an amulet or'; which means, in the ordinary vernacular, 'A sky-blue shield bearing three gold rings, separated by a wide white band, upon which is a black lion in the act of walking. The crest, a golden ring, encircling the head and shoulders of a black lion.'"—"Ancestry and Kin of the Cowden and Welch Families," page 10.

THE ANTECEDENTS OF THE GILLILANDS OF THIS BOOK

Let us imagine two large, gushing springs of cool, fresh water within a radius of a few miles, both located on Fagg's Manor in Chester County, Pennsylvania. We will call one of them William Cowden (1) and the other James Gilliland (1). They represent two characters who may have had acquaintance-ship in the old world, from which both came. On this point history and tradition are equally silent. Certainty begins at the point

The Gilliland Coat-of-Arms.

A. D. 1730, when both had come from the same old land, Ireland, to the same new country, America, and located near each other. Being of the same religious faith, they worshiped together in the same congregation, the Fagg's Manor Presbyterian, from the time of its earliest formation, and their dust lies in the same cemetery, hard by. The two streams flowing from these two fountains ran parallel for three generations, when Joseph, a grandson of Mr. Gilliland, married Catharine, a granddaughter of Mr. Cowden. Between James Gilliland (1) and Joseph there was James Gilliland (2) who was a compatriot of the Revolutionary Army; and between William Cowden (1) and his granddaughter, Catharine Cowden, there was a son, Robert (1), who was also a compatriot of the same army. Thus far the two streams were exact counterparts, each of the other. James Gilliland (1) may have had, and probably did have, daughters, and also other sons of whom this book has no information. William Cowden (1) certainly did have daughters, six of them, four having married, the names of whose husbands we have, but of whose progeny, if any, we have neither record nor tradition. The other two daughters may or may not have been married.

Our only knowledge of the first Gillilands of this line is found in the joint product of two of Joseph Gilliland's granddaughters, cousins to each other, namely, Mrs. A. R. Wingate, of 2641 Garfield Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., and Mrs. H. Lechler, of Bellefonte, Pennsylvania. This information was gleaned from the records of Chester County, and of the Fagg's Manor Presbyterian Church, and is as follows:

"Joseph Gilliland's father was James Gilliland, whose father was James, senior. James Gilliland, Sr., grandfather of Joseph, came from Londonderry, Ireland. The date and the place of landing are not yet discovered. He is first known of in the United States as at Fagg's Manor, Chester County, Pennsylvania, where a re-survey of the manor shows the northwest corner to have been settled by John Dickey, James Gilliland, and Moses Thompson.

"Fagg's Manor Presbyterian Church was organized in 1730. James Gilliland was closely associated with this church and may have been there at that time. This James Gilliland appears in Chester County records in 1749 as a witness to the will of John Thompson. He is mentioned in the history of Fagg's Manor Presbyterian Church as one of the leading men of his time. On June 15, 1758, he was a trustee of the bond of the church. His wife's name was Margaret. He died in October, 1795.

"James Gilliland (2) was born in 1739. He married Hannah, a daughter of Joseph Adams, a Revolutionary War soldier. James (2) was Second Lieutenant in Captain John Kinkaid's Company of Colonel Montgomery's Regiment, Chester County, Militia, 1777. He appears to have witnessed more wills and to have been executor of more wills than any man of his time in that region, between 1782 and 1795. He was an elder in the Presbyterian Church in 1785, and died May 10, 1795, and was buried in Fagg's Manor churchyard. His grave is marked by a good stone, still in excellent condition. Both of the James's, father and son, were advocates of temperance, and were evidently religious, and one would presume that they were public-spirited and much respected and trusted by their neighbors."

OBSERVATIONS

I. THE PROCESSION OF THE GENERATIONS.

First.—All who represented the First, Second, Third, and Fourth generations of our family have passed on into the land of spirits.

Second.—The average age of the forty-two surviving members of the Fifth generation is already seventy years, the allotted period of man.

Third.—The Sixth generation is now, in the main, carrying the world's work, while the Seventh is crowding hard, and some are already in the rush.

Fourth.—The Eighth generation, chiefly recruited in this, the twentieth century, are still in the cradle, the trundle-bed, or the public school.

Fifth.—It is the good fortune of Mrs. Jennie E. (Lohr) Schuchert, of Belle Plain, Iowa, to have the honor of introducing to the world the first, and as yet the only, member of the NINTH GENERATION, in the person of the little lady, Miss Eunice Schuchert, born August 1, 1914. Off with your hats, gentlemen, to her ladyship! The Ninth generation is here!

II. A PECULIAR CONDITION DISCOVERED.

Sixth.—Twice has it come to pass that a lady of the Cowden-Gilliland family married a gentleman of the same family, but of the generation preceding hers, and in each case the single surviving offspring is a daughter. The first instance was that of Mary Jane, daughter of Catharine (Cowden) Hamsher, of the Fifth generation, married to James, son of Catharine (Cowden) and Joseph Gilliland, of the Fourth generation. Mrs. Catharine Hamsher (Gilliland) Wingate, the daughter, through her father, belongs to the Fifth generation, but through her mother to the Sixth.

An exactly parallel case was that of Miss Lillie Jane (Haines) Boher, of the Seventh generation, who married William Cowden Smith, of the Sixth. Their daughter, Irene Estella Smith, through her father, belongs to the Seventh, but through her mother, to the Eighth generation. Inasmuch as the child follows the condition of the mother, I have numbered each of these and their descendants in the generations of their mothers, respectively.

III. CONDITIONS IN LIFE.

Seventh.—But few of us are being suspected as millionaires, though some have comfortable fortunes. A small proportion are in the learned professions, and others are experts along certain lines. But the great majority belong to the class of “common people,” of whom Mr. Lincoln said, “The Lord must love them, because he made so many of them.” Their letters to the writer indicate that the good, strong training of their Scotch-Irish ancestors was not in vain. Proverbs 22:6.

Roster and Records of Our Military Heroes

There are bonds of all sorts in this world of ours,
Fetters of friendship, and ties of flowers.

And true lovers' knots, I ween:

The boy and the girl are bound by a kiss.

But in all the world was ne'er one like this.

"We have drunk from the same canteen."

A Tribute in Prose

"TO THE AMERICAN ORDER OF NOBILITY, THE GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC:

"The Grand Army of the Republic is a unique organization. 'No child can be born into it; no proclamation of President or edict of king or czar can command admission; no university or institution of learning can issue a diploma authorizing its holder to enter; no act of Congress or Parliament secures recognition; the wealth of a Vanderbilt cannot purchase the position; its doors swing open only on presentation of a bit of paper, torn, worn, begrimed it may be, which certifies to an honorable discharge from the armies or navies of the Nation during the war against the rebellion.' And, unlike any other association, no 'new blood' can come in. There are no growing ranks from which recruits can be drawn.

"With the consummation of peace through victory, its rolls were closed forever; its lines are steadily and swiftly growing thinner, and the ceaseless tramp of its columns is with ever-lessening tread; the gaps in the picket lines grow wider; day by day details are made from the reserve, summoned into the shadowy regions, to return to touch elbows no more, until, by and by, only a solitary sentinel shall stand guard, waiting until the bugle call beyond shall muster out the last comrade of the Grand Army of the Republic."—Unidentified.

A Tribute in Song

"THE LITTLE BRONZE BUTTON

"Air—'Old Oaken Bucket.'

"How dear to the heart of each gray-headed soldier
Are the thoughts of the days when we still wore the blue,
While memory recalls every trial and danger
And scenes of the past are brought to his view ;
Though long since discarding our arms and equipments,
There's one thing a veteran most surely will note ;
The first thing he sees on the form of a comrade,
Is the little bronze button he wears on his coat.

"Chorus

"The little bronze button,
The sacred bronze button,
The Grand Army button
He wears on his coat.

" 'How much did it cost?' said a man to a soldier,
'That little, flat button you wear on your coat.'
'Ten cents in good money,' he answered the stranger,
'And four years of marching and fighting to boot.'
The wealth of the world cannot purchase this emblem,
Except that the buyer once wore the brave blue ;
And it shows to mankind the full marks of a hero,
A man who to honor and country was true. Chorus.

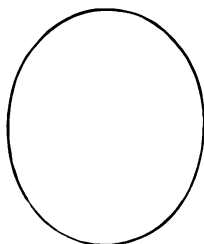

"Then let us be proud of the little, bronze button,
And wear it with spirit, both loyal and bold ;
Fraternally welcome each one who supports it,
With love in our hearts for the comrades of old.
Each day musters out whole battalions of wearers,
And soon will be missed the token so dear,
But millions to come will remember with honor,
The men who'd the right that bronze button to wear. Chorus."

The presence of the portraits of Jacob K. and John M. Kleinknecht on these pages, and in this chapter devoted to "Memorials to Our Heroes," demands an explanation. That they are not included in the "Biographical and Historical" chapters of this book is because that in their veins is neither Cowden nor Gilliland blood. The reason they are included here is from the fact that they are brothers, by the same mother, to the writer, and, with him were the only sons of that mother. And, going out from the same home and returning after the war to the same home, it did not seem to the writer out of order to include them all in this chapter; and, because not named elsewhere, to make statement of their services respectively at this point.

Jacob served from September 9, 1861, till January 31, 1866—1,606 days, without missing one. He was private in Company H, 56th Illinois Volunteer Infantry; then private in Battery I, 1st Illinois Light Artillery; then First Sergeant, and, later, Second Lieutenant in Company D, 59th Regiment, United States Colored Infantry. In the battle of Guntown, Mississippi, June 10, 1864, when our little army, under Major-General S. D. Sturgis, was defeated and thoroughly routed, and one hundred and twenty miles from its base at Memphis, to which it fled without food and with but little rest, he, with another officer, under the command of Major James C. Foster, of his same regiment, by turns commanded the entire remnants of the two colored regiments composing the brigade, his own and a small number of the men of the 55th United States Colored Infantry, and, with their men divided into two reliefs, each relief in turn deployed in form of an arc to cover the rear of the army, marched while loading, wheeled and fired at will, and thus continued until met by a relief railway train, eighteen miles from Memphis. He now lives on his farm near Galion, Ohio.

John's service was wholly as a private in Battery I, of the First Illinois Light Artillery, in which he enlisted, January 29, 1862, and served until the close of the war, and was mustered out with the command in July, 1865. At the battle of Pittsburg Landing, Tennessee, near the close of the first day of the battle when the gun which he was helping to serve was in a position of great danger of capture and the officer in command of it ordered it abandoned, he, with the gun squad, remained with it and brought it off successfully at the expense of extraordinary effort. He was but a boy of less than sixteen at that time. They were not court-martialed for disobedience. He now lives in Kingsland, Indiana.

CHAPTER III.

For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday when it is past, and as a watch in the night. Thou carriest them away as with a flood; they are as a sleep: In the morning they are like grass which groweth up. In the morning it flourisheth, and groweth up; in the evening it is cut down, and withereth. . . . For all our days are passed away in thy wrath: we bring our years to an end as a sigh. The days of our years are threescore years and ten, or even by reason of strength fourscore years; yet is their pride but labor and sorrow; for it is soon gone, and we fly away.—Psalm 90: 4, 5, 6, 9, 10. R. V.

Biographical and Historical

FIRST GENERATION

Names

* 1. WILLIAM COWDEN (1), C. 1, born in Ireland, ———; died in America, ———, in 1745. Nothing more is known of him than is stated above, except that he came to America in about 1730. His first wife, born and married in Ireland, died there also, leaving him four small daughters whose names appear below. He then married a second wife, also in Ireland, who bore him one son and two additional daughters, probably also in Ireland. The son, Robert, is believed to have been five years old at the time of the migration. The younger two daughters could have been born in Ireland or may have been born in America. He probably landed at New Castle, Delaware, as did many others coming from the same land at about the same time. He settled at once on Fagg's Manor in Chester County, Pennsylvania, where he spent all the balance of his days. He was probably a tiller of the soil. It is not probable that he owned anything more than his humble home, with its necessary stock and implements. There seems to have been no will made, or, if there was, all his land, at least, was left to his wife, who was afterwards known on the county records as "Widow Cowden."

FAGG'S MANOR.

This may be the proper place to state that on his way to America, on board the ship Welcome, William Penn executed to his son-in-law, Sir John Fagg, in trust for his wife, Gulielma, and her children, on the fourth and fifth of September, 1682, fifty thousand acres of land in what became later a part of Chester County, Pennsylvania, and on this tract, known thereafter as Fagg's Manor, which, had it been in the form of a parallelogram, would have been about six by thirteen miles in extent, settlers secured lands which were not deeded to them for many years thereafter. This may suggest why specific boundaries and acreage were not given from the time of first settlement.

*2. ——— (COWDEN) C. 1, first wife of William Cowden (1), whose name, even, is unknown; born, —; died, —.

*3. ——— (COWDEN), C. 1, second wife of William Cowden (1), name unknown; born, —; died, —, certainly as late as, or later than 1750.

in 1728; d. June 22, 1810. This Robert Cowden (1), tradition says, was five years old when brought with the family to America. It is matter of record that when his adopted country was in its struggle against the intolerable usurpations of the mother land, and for its separation from her, he did not hesitate, but took his eldest son, John, a lad, possibly yet in his teens, with him, and leaving the remaining five children with their mother, joined the ranks of the patriots in Captain Dunn's company of Pennsylvania militia, and fought under Washington until the close of the war, which he survived, and lived to the great age of ninety-two years. It is also recorded that in 1769 the husbands of his eldest two half-sisters sued him for the recovery of their respective wives' shares in the homestead, which he seems, as the only son, to have received from his mother, the Widow Cowden. He had been paying taxes on the land four years then already, and had satisfied the claims of the other sisters. Now he settled with the elder ones and so completed his title. That he was a man of some consequence is argued from the fact that from 1765 and onward he was witness to, or executor of, a number of wills. His own will ran as follows:

"West Fallowfield, November 20, 1815. To eldest son John's sons, Robert, William, and James, each $100.00. To son John's daughters, Jane and Sarah Cowden, $100.00 each. To my son Robert's sons, Robert, David, James, and William, each $100.00. To daughter Catron (Catharine) Gilliland's sons, Robert Cowden and John, each $250.00. To Rev. Robert White, interest on ten pounds yearly while he remains minister at Fagg's Manor. Remainder to John and Catron (Catharine). Real estate to be sold. Executor, son John Cowden. Witnesses, Robert Cochran and James Irwin." He seems to have been partial against his son Robert, possibly because he had displeased him in his marriage. This will was probated August 4, 1817, hence it is believed that he died, probably, in July previously. Great sorrow must have come to their home in the tragic loss of their two sons, David and James, both presumed to have been young men, when one was killed by Indians in the distant territory of Kentucky, and the other wandered away and did not return, which was even more pathetic.

At the head of a grave in the beautiful cemetery, hard by the Fagg's Manor Church, is a slab on which is this loving inscription, "Here lieth the body of Jinnie, the wife of Robert Cowden, who departed this life, June 22, 1810; aged 82 years." This stone was doubtless erected by her husband, who, seven years later, followed her and was laid beside her on the south. Though for some unknown reason, the grave was never marked, the present sexton assures me that that is undoubtedly his.

*16. JOHN COWDEN (1), C. 1, b. Jan. 27, 1756; died in 1840.

*17. MARY (FLETCHER) COWDEN, C. 1, born Sept. 3, 1776; died after Aug. 10, 1820. John Cowden (1) also served with his father, as noted above, in Captain Dunn's company of Pennsylvania militia under Washington. After the war he married a girl who was born during the period of conflict. He must have been at least forty years old when he married and lived to see ten children, six sons and four daughters, come into his home. He died at a ripe age. Unfortunately the exact date of his death has not been discovered because of the disappearance of records from some cause. His granddaughter, Miss Catharine E. Cowden, of Mount Vernon, Ohio, says, "As nearly as I can tell, he died in 1840." Mrs. Fox, of the same city, another granddaughter, says she thinks her "Sister Ann, who was born in 1839, was a year old when I saw mother take her to his bedside, that he might see her again before he died." His wife having received from her father, Robert Fletcher, as a legacy, a tract of land in North Oxford, and he having received liberally from his father's estate, must have been quite well-to-do. He was probably a farmer, as were his father and his grandfather before him, and his sons after him. At an unknown date he moved his family to Ohio, to a point either in or near to Zanesville, and later moved to Knox County, and settled two miles south of Mt. Liberty, where he died.

displeased, possibly because of his extreme youth. No parental unkindness is known to have been shown them later, except, it may be, that for this cause his father left him without legacy. Having met some financial reverses, after the loss of his wife, he moved to Ohio and settled on a farm near Skelley's Station, in Jefferson County, where he resided until his death. He also married a Mrs. (or Miss) Adrian, but whether in Pennsylvania before migration, or in Ohio after, is not known. The latter is suspected. Of this woman nothing more is known except that she was a Baptist and that in his last years he worshiped also in that connection. The writer had the privilege of a visit to his grave and to the remains of the log church in which he last worshiped. His departure from this life was just a century after that of his grandfather, William Cowden (1). During this latter period of his life he made four trips on flat-boats from Pittsburgh to New Orleans, carrying merchandise, which he sold, with the boat also, and returned each time on foot. At his death he left about one hundred dollars to each of his children, or to their heirs.

*24. CATHARINE (COWDEN<sup>1</sup>) GILLILAND, C. 1, b. June 18, 1769; d. July 18, 1830.

*25. JOSEPH GILLILAND (1), C. 1, b. Nov. 4, 1770; d. Dec. 18, 1840. Catharine Cowden was the youngest child in her mother's family. In accepting the hand of Mr. Joseph Gilliland (1) in marriage, she made a most excellent choice and became the mother of a large and influential progeny. As soon as married, in 1794, they set out from Fagg's Manor, Pennsylvania, their native place and their home up to this time, on horseback, and both mounted on the same horse, to Lewisburg, Pennsylvania. This was both a bridal and a bridle trip, and one of rare simplicity, much differing from our modern styles. Probably they carried with them all their earthly possessions. About 1805 they moved again, this time to Spring Mills, Center County, Pennsylvania, where they ever after lived, and where both are buried. From the history of the Presbytery of Huntingdon (Pennsylvania) by William J. Gibson, D.D., is gleaned and adapted the following statement about this, our Joseph Gilliland (1). Some corrections of dates are necessary to conformity with statements by relatives.

"He was of distinguished ancestry. His father, James Gilliland, a native of Chester County, Pennsylvania, was born in 1739. At the age of thirty-eight years, we find him in the Continental Army, where he bore honorable part as an officer under General Washington, and where, because of excessive exposure and severity of service, he laid the foundation for premature death, which came to him in 1795. He was strictly religious and was an elder in the Presbyterian Church in Fagg's Manor, of which his father, James, a native of Ireland, and grandfather of the subject in hand, was one of the original elders, to whom the church was first deeded. Joseph, the subject of this sketch, was a native of Fagg's Manor, as was also Miss Catharine Cowden, who became his wife in 1794. In 1805 they moved to Penn's Valley, Center County, where they immediately united with the Sinking Creek Presbyterian Church, then under the pastoral care of Rev. William Stuart. Ten years later he was elected an elder, in which capacity he served with great acceptability twenty-five years, until his death in 1840. He was not only devout as a Christian, and the counsellor and friend of the widow and the fatherless, but he was also highly esteemed as a citizen, taking large interest in civic affairs and serving three years as county commissioner. He was a farmer, residing at Egg Hill, Pennsylvania, where he died, having reached the allotted period of threescore and ten years."

One of his sons bears the following testimony as to the religious training of their children: "My father and my mother, both having had Scotch-Irish Presbyterian training, adhered to it strictly in the training of their children. As soon as it could lisp, the child was taught the 'Mother's Catechism' and the 'Apostles' Creed,' and was talked to about God and the Savior; and as soon as it could read, was required to commit to memory the 'Shorter Catechism.' And every Sabbath evening a part of the religious exercises of the home was the answering of the questions. I do not think that as long as I remained at home, a Sabbath ever passed without having this attended to."

AN AMUSING INCIDENT

On an occasion when Mr. and Mrs. Abram R. Wingate were exploring in Fagg's Manor, they fell in with a Mr. Samuel Coates, whose farm was once a part of the land originally purchased by William Cowden (1), our ancestor. In the course of conversation he recalled an entertaining anecdote he had often heard repeated by the old people of the neighborhood, and was known to have been true. It was as follows, as remembered by Mrs. Wingate: The farm adjoining Cowden's was owned by a Mr. Scanlon, who had a bitter controversy with the Cowdens over their boundary line, which was finally settled by arbitration. Bad feeling continued, however, for a long time. In that early day, the country folk were somewhat superstitious and believed in haunts or appearances of persons deceased. When Mr. Scanlon came to die, notwithstanding he was a deacon in the Fagg's Manor Church-house, and logically would have been buried there, he requested to be buried as near as possible to the Cowden boundary line. Accordingly he, his wife, a nephew, and a niece were so buried, and lie there to this day, the graves neglected and forsaken. Mr. Coates, disliking to see those graves so dilapidated, so near his fence, sought a descendant of the Scanlon family, to whom he proposed that if he would place a good fence around them, he would himself keep them in order. But the descendant replied that he did not care to "bother with them." Mrs. Wingate adds that "Perhaps a man who carries his spite with him to the grave, does not deserve much consideration from his posterity." Whatever the cause, no Cowdens are to be found in that vicinity now.

CHAPTER IV.

I am far frae my hame an' I'm weary aft-en-whiles,
For the langed-for hame-bringin', an' my Faither's welcome smiles,
An' I'll ne'er be fu' content, until mine een do see
The gow-den gates o' heaven an' my ain countrie.
The earth is fleck'd wi' flowers, mon-y-tint-ed, fresh, an' gay;
The bird-ies warble blithe-ly, for my Fai-ther made them sae;
But these sights an' these soun's will as naething be to me,
When I hear the angels singin' in my ain countrie.

"Praise the Lord, Betsey, I'm going home to-day."—David Cowden,<sup>3</sup> Sunday, June 17, 1838.

Fourth Generation

*26. JANE COWDEN,<sup>2</sup> C. 2, b. April 10, 1802; d. —.

*27. SARAH (COWDEN) LINCOLN, C. 2, b. May 27, 1803;
d. —.

*28. SAMUEL LINCOLN, C. 2, b. —; d. —. These died childless. Mr. Lincoln is reputed to have been a very excellent man and citizen. He was probably born near the date of the birth of our great martyred President of the same name.

*29. ROBERT COWDEN (3), C. 2, b. April 6, 1805; d. Aug. 3, 1880.

*30. ELISABETH STEWART (HAMILL) COWDEN, C. 2, b. November 25, 1808; died, Oct. 23, 1880. This Mr. Cowden the writer personally knew very intimately since February, 1863, until the close of his life. He owned the farm on which he lived, three miles southwest of Mount Vernon, Ohio, where he visited him. He was large and stoutly built; was very jolly, and a good storyteller, which he greatly enjoyed. He was, I think, of the religious faith of the Disciples' Church, and was fond of singing hymns and religious songs.

*31. DAVID COWDEN (2), C. 2, b. Jan. 12, 1807; d. March 8, 1810.

*32. JOHN COWDEN (2), C. 2, b. May 8, 1809; d. Mar. 14, 1810.

*33. WILLIAM COWDEN (2), C. 2, b. Jan. 27, 1811; d. July 10, 1885.

*34. MARY (HORNBECK) COWDEN, C. 2, b. May 22, 1810; d. Jan. 7, 1899. This Mr. Cowden, like his brother, Robert, described above, was a farmer, his farm and home lying near the village of Sparta, in Morrow County, Ohio. The one striking, but most pathetic thing about this family was, as related to the writer, that the parents and five of the seven children, one of whom died in infancy and one still lives, were taken away by tuberculosis, that great scourge of our race. The ages of the children taken were 21, 21, 16, 19, and 18 years respectively, just in the flower of life. One daughter, 78, and four great-grandchildren, born in this century, are all that remain of the family.

*35. JAMES COWDEN (2), C. 2, b. Mar. 4, 1813; d. ——. Like his uncle, the first James Cowden, this James also "wandered away and never returned." It must have been out of a pure desire for adventure and with but little of any other motive that, twelve years before the discovery of gold there, and when he was twenty-four years of age, he started on foot with a gentleman companion for the far-away-land of California. Being first cousin to my father, they stopped for a short time at our cabin, which stood on the left bank of the Sandusky River, in Richland County, Ohio. I was then a husky, four-year-old chap, and, living in the deep forests, had never seen a stick of candy. He gave me one with beautiful, spiral stripes of red from end to end. Was ever anything else so pretty, or so sweet? I have never been so rich since that day. It was of the kind called rock candy, and deserved the name, for it was of flinty hardness. My careful mother hid it away in a drawer in the bureau, and each Sunday I was allowed to suck it a little. I think it lasted a couple of years. He reached his destination and lived many years, and died unmarried. His brothers thought he had amassed wealth, but they never set up a claim or investigated the matter. The people with whom he lived, declared that he died penniless and that they buried him.

*36. (Son) — COWDEN, b. Mar. 30, 1815; d. Apr. 10, 1815.

*37. MARY (COWDEN<sup>3</sup>) BOWLES, C. 2, b. Jan. 1, 1818; d. Mar. 29, 1906.

*38. THOMAS BOWLES, C. 2, b. Apr. 13, 1813; d. Apr. 7, 1896. Mary and Thomas Bowles, after the births of their first five children, moved from Knox County, Ohio, to Wisconsin, where the last three were born, and where they resided, in all, twenty-three years; then eight years in Cass County, Iowa, and thirteen years in Washington County, Kansas, going from there, in 1891, to Oklahoma, where both are buried, and where many of their family still live. Their direct descendants number one hundred and twelve, to which should be added thirty-five consorts.

*39. CATHARINE COWDEN (2), C. 2, b. Aug. 10, 1820; d. ——. This woman was never married. She was distressingly afflicted in her later years, dying of cancer, in the Knox County, Ohio, hospital. I visited her in this institution when she was forty-three years old. I think she died soon thereafter.

*40. JOHN COWDEN (3), C. 7, b. Jan. 21, 1787; d. Jan. 7, 1812. Was said to be unusually bright in mathematics; was not married.

*41. JANE COWDEN (3), C. 7, b. Feb. 2, 1789; d. Feb. 3, 1789.

*42. JENNETT MCCHESENEY (COWDEN <sup>2</sup>) SNYDER, C. 7, b. Nov. 14, 1790; d. Feb. 8, 1847.

*43. JACOB SNYDER, C. 7, b. —; d. ——. Mr. Snyder was a widower with a number of children grown and married when he married Miss Cowden. His youngest child, Rebecca, was the only one still in the home. She later married Mr. John Breedlove, who had a very remarkable talent which he himself could not account for. He was visiting one of his wife's relatives, where I dropped in at an evening hour. There was no light in the room except that from a large wood fire. I overheard him saying that he could describe the character of an individual whom he had never seen. I promptly challenged him to describe my mother, which he did very minutely, and much better than I could have done. Science may be able to account for it now, but it certainly was new and strange then. Mrs. Snyder never bore any children. She was an epileptic, and being alone in the house, fell into the wood fire and perished. This was in Highland County, Ohio, where they then lived.

*44. CATHARINE (COWDEN <sup>3</sup>) HAMSHER, C. 7, b. Oct. 28, 1792; d. Dec. 11, 1860.

*45. PETER HAMSHER, C. 7, b. Jan. 9, 1792; d. Nov. 14, 1871. Mrs. Hamsher, accompanied by a younger brother, William Cowden (3), traveling on horseback from her home in Seville, Ohio, seventy miles east of us, visited my widowed mother and her family in our home when I was in my seventh year. Passing our log schoolhouse at noon, they found me there and I was lifted to the back of the first horse I had ever sat on, and was asked to find for them the bridle-path across a mile of deep forest to our home, which I easily did, sitting behind my uncle, to whom I clung very closely. They stayed a week. Mr. Hamsher was a carpenter, and his two sons were architects when I visited them in 1853. They were very strict and exemplary in their Christian lives, being Methodists, as were all my grandfather's family. The Cowdens were originally all very staunch Presbyterians, but for some reason, unknown to the writer, all the children of Robert (2) were Methodists. Whether it was due to Methodist influences growing out of some great revival, or whether the escapade of Robert and his bride, in eloping to marry, thus defying parental opposition, had the effect to open a breach between them and their church, I cannot say. My father was a "Closed Door" Methodist, so called because their testimony meetings were held behind locked doors on account of disturbances by the ungodly in that day of sharp persecutions.

*46. ROBERT COWDEN (4) C. 7, b. May 5, 1795; d. Apr. 9, 1871. This was a very peculiar character. A few months before his birth, their house took fire and burned to the ground. As the mother ran from the building, her clothing aflame, she plucked at her garments to tear them from her. The child and man, in moments of abstraction, always made the same movements, running at the top of his speed. When exhausted and the spell was spent, he was a long way off, and had forgotten where he had been working, what he had been doing, or where he had left his tools. Some one had then to find where he had worked last, get his tools, and start him in again. He read considerable, had a remarkably retentive memory, and was strong in simple, practical problems in arithmetic, all of which he always solved mentally. He was the tallest Cowden I ever knew. They were men generally rather below than above medium height, while he was about five feet, eleven inches tall. He was bony and strong, and his services always desirable for labor such as he was capable of performing. He was never married. He lived to the age of seventy-six, chiefly with his brother William.

*47. DAVID COWDEN (3), C. 7, b. Mar. 5, 1797; d. June 17, 1838.

*48. ELISABETH (KITCH) COWDEN, C. 7, b. July 20, 1814; d. Mar. 4, 1873. These were the writer's parents. Father was of medium stature; had blue eyes and brown hair, in common with all his father's family, I think. In his manner he was very gentle and tender, though he did not hesitate to attack a room full of strong young men, as he once did, as teacher when they had barred him out of his schoolhouse, to force from him a Christmas treat, a common practice in schools of that early day. Instead of yielding to their demand, he armed himself with a good, strong switch, and opened the roof of the house, by lifting a weight-pole, and, removing a few clap-boards from the roof, went down through into the house and switched them all. I think they made little or no resistance. His trade was that of a cooper, and he taught country schools every winter as long as his strength endured. He resigned his last school at about Christmas time, and went home to linger until the next June, and then to die of tuberculosis. He was a man of abiding faith in Jesus. His spiritual vision was unclouded. Though but five years old, I have a very distinct recollection of sitting on my three-legged stool on the puncheon floor in our home, eating my breakfast of bread and milk when he, with unusual strength, rose to a sitting posture in bed and clapped his emaciated hands as he said, "Praise the Lord, Betsey; I am going home to-day." And at one o'clock he passed peacefully into his rest.

Mother was a Pennsylvania Dutch girl of a little less than eighteen years when married. At twenty-four she was a widow, the mother of four helpless children, two of whom died in infancy, as my father had died, of consumption. My sister, two years younger than I, passed on nearly eight years ago. Mother received her coronation the day of General Grant's second inauguration as president, and has been wearing her crown more than forty-one years. She belonged to the "Church of God," of which Rev. John Winebrenner, of Pennsylvania, was the founder, under God.

*49. HANNAH (COWDEN) MCCOMBS, C. 7, b. Aug. 12, 1799; d. Jan. 7, 1872.

*50. JAMES MCCOMBS, C. 7, b. Sept. 6, 1801; d. April 11, 1885. Hannah Cowden was a member of a praying band who called themselves "Gideons," and was very active in camp-meetings, etc. In one such place she met James McCombs, who was converted there. The fact that he was totally blind, and never saw her, then or later, deepens the mystery of the moving of that emotion which we call love. They became lovers true and in due time were married. This was a staggering shock to her family. That Hannah, their daughter, sister—young, handsome, consecrated Christian that she was, with great possibilities—should marry an uneducated, blind pauper, as they conceived him to be, was too much for them to condone. So they turned from her until several years later, when my father was about to start to Ohio, he determined that he would not go until he had first seen Hannah. After a night with them, and when about to leave, she drew a stocking from its hiding place and told her very small daughter, Sarah Jane, to take it to "Uncle Davy," which the child did by dragging and dropping it at his feet with "See here, Uncle Davy." It was filled with coin—money which they had accumulated. Of course he told it, and in a short time they all were reconciled and Hannah and hers were back in full fellowship.

Rev. James McCombs was, by gifts both natural and acquired, one of the most notable of men. As a young man of twenty-two, he was a shoemaker, in Baltimore, and was taken sick with a fever. As a result of the medicines administered, both his eyeballs bursted, and all the remaining sixty-two years of his life he was in absolute darkness. He then realized how helpless was his condition. "When I became blind, then I saw," was the way he expressed it to me. Some one, I know not who, told him of Jesus, the mighty Helper, and to him he went and found relief in the forgiveness of his sins. He began at once to exercise his gifts, and to tell others in an effective way of the Savior he had found. After he and Hannah Cowden were married, they invoiced their material holdings and found that of money she had fifty cents, and he, not one. With that very small capital they began the team-work of their lives. At noon he said, "Give me your half-dollar, Hannah, and I will see what I can do." At sunset the half-dollar had become a dollar. Said a friendly voice on the street, "James, I have some pamphlets here that I believe you can sell, and you may have them all for fifty cents." Rev. Jacob Gruver (or Gruber), a Methodist minister, had recently been tried by his church, or by the State, for using language claimed to be inflammatory against slavery as it then existed; and this pamphlet contained the published account of the trial. Public feeling ran high, and they sold readily. This experience was encouraging and taught him that he could sell goods. He began at once to reinvest his capital, beginning with pocket-knives and trinkets, and going on to school books, and then to still larger things. Sometimes he was led by a dog, and sometimes by a boy, and again he had a stand on a street corner. Later he had a one-horse wagon, and then a four-horse. By and by he established a store, and this he continued until he had gained a competence for himself and his growing family. When I first visited him, in 1852, he was a farmer in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. One member of his family was his regular reader, and when the mail was brought, that one had to drop all else and read until all was finished. If it was a newspaper, the reading would include advertisements and markets. When done, he had it all. When I was there, the reader was his eighteen-year-old daughter, Hannah Margaret. His memory was wonderfully retentive. He seemed to remember everything. His side line occupation was the making of corn brooms, which he had learned. His sense of touch was exceedingly fine and discriminating. I asked him whether it was true, as I had heard, that he could distinguish colors by touch. He replied that that was true only of horses. He could distinguish between a black, a bay, or a white horse. When he met merchants in Philadelphia, where, in those days, they all went to purchase goods, he selected their fabrics for them, and they, in turn, helped him out on queensware and goods of that character. The Methodist Episcopal Church had licensed and ordained him as a minister of the gospel, and wherever he drove, in his business, he also preached. No listener would have suspected that he was blind. His reading of Scripture and locating the references, his announcement and reading of the selected hymns, and then lining as the congregation sang, two lines at a time, as was the custom of the day, in the absence of books in the hands of the people, was always accurate. He never accepted anything for preaching, nor in charity, and was always ruffled if any one should express sympathy on account of his affliction. At the ripe age of eighty-four years he peacefully passed into his rest, his companion having preceded him twelve years, since which time his home had been with his daughter, Catharine Barnes, in Doylestown, Ohio, where his dust sleeps in the family lot with those whom he loved.

*51. JAMES COWDEN (3), C. 7, b. Sept. 9, 1801; d. Nov. 23, 1851.

*52. REBECCA (STEWART) COWDEN, C. 7, b. Jan. 1, 1800; d. Apr. 5, 1862. James Cowden was a very godly man, and active in the work of the Master. His homes among the hills in Harrison and Carroll counties, Ohio, like the home of the Shunammite, by the wayside, always contained a bed for the weary itinerant preacher. For many years he was the faithful class-leader in his home congregation. When his one remaining, aged son shall have gone home, his family in this world will be extinct.

*53. WILLIAM COWDEN (3), C. 7, b. Jan. 6, 1804; d. June 16, 1867.

*54. ELISABETH (CARPENTER) COWDEN, C. 7, b. Nov. 17, 1807; d. Feb. 7, 1887. William Cowden (3) was a carpenter and builder. His home was in Columbia, Pennsylvania. In connection with his building transactions, he also operated brick kilns. As a carpenter, he assisted in the construction of the great, covered, wooden bridge across the Susquehanna River at Columbia, the length of which was said to be a mile and a quarter. About the time of the beginning of the Civil War in the United States, he sold his property in Columbia and bought a farm on the left bank of the Juniata River, three miles south of Newton Hamilton, Mifflin County, Pennsylvania, where, in June, 1867, he passed on in peace to his home in heaven. His afflicted elder, bachelor brother, Robert (4), always had a welcome in his home, and also his greatly-afflicted maiden sister, Margaret (3), until she had to be sent to the hospital. He gave two sons to help save his country, John Milton falling in the battle of Gettysburg, and William James starving to death in Andersonville prison pen. Two sons-in-law, Mr. Augustus K. Haines and Mr. William L. Davis, also served with distinction in the army.

MRS. ELISABETH (CARPENTER) COWDEN was truly a great as well as a good woman. The home was always a home of piety and prayer, and the five daughters and three sons who grew up in it owed much to both parents for their excellent example. While her dear son, "Jimmy," lay those nine long months in Andersonville prison, though she had no word from him, her eyes were never dry, for she felt, and insisted on believing, that he was living and suffering and needing her assistance. When he died, though she had not been informed, her heart grew measurably calm and resigned. She lived in widowhood twenty years.

*55. MARGARET COWDEN (3), C. 7, b. Jan. 27, 1806; d. May 25, 1854. Having become incurably afflicted by the dethronement of reason, once bright, she spent her latest years in the hospital of her native Chester County, Pennsylvania. In the childhood days of the writer she was a familiar figure in his home.

*56. SAMUEL HOLMES COWDEN, C. 7, b. July 5, 1810; d. Sept. 9, 1815.

*57. ANN ALLEN (GILLILAND) SMITH, C. 21, b. Jan. 26, 1795; d. Oct. 4, 1825.

*58. MR. — SMITH, C. 21, b. —; d. —. All that is really known of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, so far as could be learned, is that they both died early and left two small daughters to be reared by Mrs. Smith's parents.

*63. ROBERT COWDEN GILLILAND, C. 21, b. June 27, 1800; d. Nov. 9, 1864.

*64. CATHARINE (SANKEY) GILLILAND, C. 21, b. —; d. —. Miss Sankey was related by blood to Ira D. Sankey, the famous singing evangelist, who assisted Mr. D. L. Moody in his great work in many lands.

65. JENNETT (GILLILAND) SANKEY, C. 21, b. Mar. 14, 1803; d. Apr. 12, 1849.

*66. THOMAS SANKEY, C. 21, b. Aug. 8, 1800; d. July 28, 1865. Mr. Sankey was brother to Miss Sankey, named above.

*67. JAMES GILLILAND (3), C. 21, b. Jan. 27, 1804; d. April 1, 1889.

*68. ELIZA (RANKIN) GILLILAND, C. 21, b. July 28, 1811; d. Mar. —, 1854. Mr. Gilliland was born in Buffalo Valley, Pennsylvania. His early days were spent at Spring Mills, Pennsylvania, where his father kept a hotel. As a boy and young man he was interested in the conversations between his father and patrons and friends, including Judge Potter, Andrew Gregg, and other prominent citizens. As a result, he became well informed in social and political affairs so that in future years he was known and regarded as an oracle in local history. Naturally he became interested in public work and filled many and important public stations with credit. While yet young he was in the employ of Hon. Judge Isaac McKinney, as a clerk in his store near Jacksonville, and, as such, assisted in taking arks down the Bald Eagle, and then the West Branch to Port Deposit and Baltimore to market, and on one of these occasions he accompanied the judge to Washington City, where they called upon President Jackson and were kindly received. In the enjoyment of these privileges he became widely known throughout his county, and also influential in politics. At one time he served as prothonotary, filling the unexpired term of William L. Smith, deceased. Later he built and occupied a fine stone residence in Bellefonte, Pennsylvania, where he engaged in merchandising. In 1837, he was one of a committee with John Irvin and John Hull, who erected the Presbyterian church edifice that preceded the present building. He was engaged several years in settling the estate of General Phillip Brenner. In 1847, he purchased from the Gratzes three tracts of land in Snowshoe Township, and in partnership with Henry Van Dyke and John McCormick, built a first-class saw-mill and a blacksmith shop, and completed an elegant flouring-mill on the purchase site. In 1849, he and Mr. Van Dyke laid out the town of Mo-Shannon, and, in 1851, the Presbyterian church there was built on ground donated by them. Mr. Gilliland became one of the elders and the clerk of the session.

On the outbreak of the war for the Union, he was made captain of a company raised at Snowshoe, but, on going to Harrisburg, owing to his advanced age (fifty-seven) he was assigned to duty in the office of the Quartermaster-General. After a time, Governor Curtin appointed him Quartermaster and Commissary of the First Regiment of Pennsylvania Veterans, and, later, transferred him to Washington City as Assistant Agent of the State of Pennsylvania, to look after the interests of the soldiers of the State. This office he filled until the close of the war, "admirably and with great fidelity," as the governor testified, and as the soldiers themselves declared.

After the war he moved seven or eight miles out of the city, where he spent all the remaining years of his life, and passed on at the age of eighty-five years, two months, and four days. The cut shown in the department of "Our Heroes," was made from a photograph taken a short while before he died. Being genial and pleasant and possessed of good conversational powers, he had many admirers and friends among the best people of his day, being identified, as he always was, with temperance and Christianity.

Mr. Gilliland, for his second wife, married Miss Mary Jane Hamsher, who, by her birth, belonged to the next, the fifth, generation, where her name will be found, on Chart 10.

*75. MARGARET (SANKEY) GILLILAND, C. 21, b. Nov. 14, 1814; d. April 9, 1886. This last-named lady was the third Sankey from the same family who found congenial consorts in the same family of Gillilands. Parallel cases are rare. Of this Mr. Gilliland, his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Nannie C., second, and surviving wife of James Cowden Gilliland, has this to say: "I was a great admirer of my husband's father. To most people he was a very silent man, but to cherished friends, a very interesting talker.

I have many words of wisdom as well as funny anecdotes that fell from his lips, to pass on to my children. One incident, told me by my father, who was a friend and admirer of his, is worth repeating in these days of greed and graft. 'He, Mr. Gilliland, was a member of the Pennsylvania Legislature a couple of terms, and while there voted against a bill to increase the pay of members. Although he voted against it, it passed, and when his portion was sent to him, he returned it.' He was a great Bible reader, always making it a point to read it through once a year."

CHAPTER V.

Strength fails at fifty, but, with wit,
Fox like, he helps to manage it.

At sixty, rapine, fraud, and stealthy ways,
Yet, wolf-like, tries his wealth to raise.

At seventy, news he'll hear and tell,
Yet, dog-like, loves at home to dwell.

The cat keeps house and likes the fire;
At eighty, we the same desire.

*83. SEJENA (KAISER) COWDEN, C. 2, b. —, 1845; d.—, 1909. James Madison Cowden enlisted on the eighth day of September, 1864, at Peoria, Illinois, as a private in Company H of the One Hundred and Forty-sixth Regiment of Illinois Volunteer Infantry for the period of one year. He gave as his residence, when enlisted, Macon, Bureau County, Illinois, where he was visiting friends, temporarily, at the time, his home being in Knox County, Ohio. His description as noted by the enrolling officer was:

"Age, 25 years; height, 5 feet, 9½ inches; hair, dark; eyes, blue; complexion, dark." He was mustered out with his regiment at Springfield, Illinois, July 8, 1865, the war having closed. His cut appears with those of other veterans on another page. He is now a patient in the Ohio State Hospital at Columbus.

84. ELISABETH CATHARINE COWDEN, C. 2, b. Jan. 19, 1841. Address, 903 West Vine Street, Mt. Vernon, Ohio. Notwithstanding her almost total loss of sight, this lady is quite active in mind and spirit, and gave very valuable assistance in collecting facts for these pages.

- *118. MRS — (—) HAMSHER, C. 8, b. —; d. —. Concerning this young man it is only known that after reaching man's estate in his father's home in Wayne County, Ohio, he went to some western State, and, for a time, communicated with home; that he married, and, tradition says, reared a large family. His letters grew less and less frequent with the years, and finally ceased altogether. No person can now be found who has the slightest knowledge of him or even of the State to which he went.

*122. WILLIAM HAMILTON REDINGER, C. 8, b. July 5, 1823; d. Jan. 29, 1876. Mr. Redinger was related to Alexander Hamilton, of historic fame in the early days of our Republic.

*123. JAMES HAMSHER, C. 8, b. Nov. 18, 1822; d. June 23, 1881.

124. CHRISSEY JANE (LEE) HAMSHER, C. 8, b. Aug. 27, 1824. Mr. Hamsher was, in his early manhood, a carpenter, architect, and builder. Later he was connected with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company as its agent for the negotiation of rights-of-way in the construction of its line from Chicago Junction, in Ohio, to Chicago, Illinois. He died in Chicago Junction, where Mrs. Lee still lives, at the very great age of ninety years. She retains her mental faculties to a remarkable degree. While able to do business, she owned and operated a millinery store. She is the oldest, but one, of all our number who are still living; only Mrs. Catharine Corbett exceeding her, and she but for less than a month. See their cuts and messages of greeting on another page.

*125. WILLIAM HAMSHER, C. 8, b. Jan. 12, 1827; d. Mar. 10, 1908.

*126. ELIZA ANN (LEE) HAMSHER, C. 8, b. Aug. 16, 1832; d. June 15, 1905. William Hamsher, like his father and his elder brother, James, was a carpenter and builder, but in his latest years his eyes were so afflicted with granulated lids as to make reading or any work impossible. He and his wife also died at Chicago Junction, Ohio, where they had lived many years. He and his brother James married sisters.

*127. MARY JANE (HAMSHER) GILLILAND, C. 8, b. Jan. 12, 1827; d. Nov. 9, 1884.

* JAMES GILLILAND. As Mr. Gilliland's name and record will appear with the family of his father on another chart, he will not be given a number here. He made for himself a distinguished record. Look it up. This wife was a twin sister to William Hamsher, whose name is the second above hers. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gilliland died near Washington City, D. C.

*128. HANNAH MARGARET (HAMSHER) NOYES, C. 8, b. July 19, 1831; d. Oct. 14, 1867.

*129. FRANK J. NOYES, C. 8, b. May 31, 1838; d. Dec. 22, 1875. Mr. Noyes was of a family, many of whose members were and are missionaries in China.

*131. LYDIA TABITHA (MILLER) COWDEN, C. 11, b. June 9, 1835; d. Dec. 12, 1890.

132. JOANNA (RIBLET) (MCGINNIS) COWDEN, C. 11, b. Dec. 15, 1855. Address, Dayton, Ohio, 18 Hershey Street. Being orphaned at the age of five years by the death of his father, this Robert Cowden was left to grow up in the midst of toil and poverty, getting his only education in the puncheon-floored, log-cabin schoolhouses of that day in northern Ohio. At fifteen he entered as an apprentice at the carpenter trade, in which business he continued twenty-eight years. At eighteen he began and taught fourteen winter terms of country and village ungraded schools. For a wife he secured the daughter of a neighboring farmer, and with her and their two sons, moved, in the spring of 1857, to Franklin County, Kansas, while John Brown was still there. Three years later they returned to Ohio, and the Civil War breaking out soon, he enlisted as private in Co. B. of the 56th Illinois Volunteer Infantry. He rose through the non-commissioned grades to the rank of First Lieutenant. After less than five months' service in camp of rendezvous, the regiment was mustered out because of irregularities in its enlistment. He immediately re-enlisted as private in Battery I, First Illinois Light Artillery, and, having risen through the lower grades in the service, was, "for merit at Pittsburgh Landing," promoted to Second Lieutenant. After eighteen months' service in the Battery, he was promoted to Major and transferred to the 59th Regiment, United States Colored Infantry Volunteers, and later was further promoted to Lieutenant Colonel. He commanded that regiment about two years, and was mustered out with it, January 31, 1866. In December, 1866, he was made an officer in the Ohio Sunday-school Association, in which he has served continuously ever since, forty-eight years, in which time he was president one year, and general secretary six years. Marion Lawrance says he has the world record for length of service. Within that time he also served his denomination, the United Brethren in Christ, thirty-six years as General Secretary of their Sunday-school Board, and superintendent and principal of their educational system. In 1891, Lane University conferred on him the honorary degree of Litt.D. His friends, in 1914, endowed in his honor the Robert Cowden Chair of Sunday-school Science in Bonebrake Theological Seminary, located in Dayton, Ohio. He is still hale for his years, and lives in Dayton, Ohio.

*133. MARGARET ANN (COWDEN) WEBSTER, C. 11, b. Apr. 20, 1835; d. Oct. 6, 1906.

*134. LYMAN WEBSTER, C. 11, b. Feb. 16, 1835; d. June 6, 1863. Mr. Webster was enrolled as a private in Company K of the 112th Regiment of Ohio Volunteer Infantry on the ninth of October, 1862, to serve three years, and died of camp disease in hospital at Milliken's Bend, Louisiana, June 6, 1863. He had always been a farmer. See his cut with the hero group in this volume.

*137. SARAH JANE (MCCOMBS) LOGAN, C. 13, b. May 4, 1826; d. Jan. 17, 1899.

*138. WILLIAM PYLE LOGAN, C. 13, b. Aug. 27, 1822; d. June 2, 1889. Mr. Logan was a local preacher about forty years, first in the Methodist Episcopal, and later in the Methodist Protestant Church. He was also a farmer, and was postmaster at London, Missouri, fifteen years. Mrs. Logan took charge of the post-office during the ten years between his death and her own. She was a good woman, and of very decided and positive character.

*140. PHILLIP H. BARNES, C. 13, b. Aug. 9, 1822; d. July 1, 1873. Mr. Barnes, in his latest years, was a clerk in the store with his father-in-law, Rev. James McCombs, in Doylestown, Ohio, where he died.

*141. MARGARET ANN McCOMBS, C. 13, b. May 2, 1830; d. Feb. 15, 1832.

*142. WILLIAM HARVEY McCOMBS, C. 13, b. Mar. 16, 1832; d. Feb. 16, 1864.

*143. CATHARINE (LONG) McCOMBS, C. 13, b. Sept. 15, 1832; d. Sept. 8, 1875. Comrade McCombs served the Government in the early days of the Civil War as conductor of a military train on the Richmond and Potomac Railway. He was sent home on invalid furlough in June, 1863, but never returned. His diseases, contracted in the service, were totally disabling, and on the sixteenth of the following February he died in his home in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. See his cut on another page.

*144. HANNAH MARGARET (McCOMBS) McFARLAND, C. 13, b. Feb. 28, 1834; d. Mar. 16, 1866.

145. BENJAMIN SLAYTER McFARLAND, C. 13, b. Oct. 31, 1832. Mr. McFarland has been an employee in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, post office for more than forty years, continuously, I think, and is still; a record for continuous, prolonged service rarely equalled. Address him there, Care General Post Office.

*146. JAMES FRANKLIN McCOMBS, C. 13, b. Mar. 15, 1836; d. Sept. 19, 1839.

*154. JOHN MILTON COWDEN, C. 18, b. Dec. 17, 1830; d. July 20, 1863. The writer never had a more congenial friend than this full cousin. He enlisted August 13, 1862, in Company I of the 149th Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry (Bucktails), and was promoted for merit to Corporal. He was fatally wounded in the great battle at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, July 1-3, 1863, and died the twentieth of the same month in Columbia, Pennsylvania, long time his home, if not the place of his nativity. A brave and splendid soldier was he. See his cut with comrades on another page.

He died in the Pennsylvania State Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, at Erie, Pennsylvania. The fact of his promotion in so short a time to a post so important in another company, is sufficient evidence of his courage and efficiency as a soldier. Mrs. Haines lives with a son in Bellwood, Pennsylvania.

159. ELLEN JANE COWDEN, C. 18, b. Mar. 18, 1837. Address, Bellwood, Pennsylvania.

*160. WILLIAM JAMES COWDEN, C. 18, b. Aug. 31, 1839; d. Sept. 25, 1864. This young man enlisted as private on the following day and in the same company and regiment with his brother, John Milton, named above. He was captured while on outpost duty by a band of guerrillas at Warrenton Junction, Virginia, December 1, 1863, and lay in Andersonville, Georgia, prison until death, by starvation, released him from that horror of horrors, about September 25, 1864. No tongue or pen can adequately describe the sufferings of those incarcerated in that most loathsome and cruel place of torment. You will find his cut with the other heroes on another page.

from July 6, 1877, till November, 1894, when his term expired, having risen in that time from Second Lieutenant, Company B, 1st Regiment, to Captain, Lieutenant-Colonel, and Colonel of the regiment, and then to Brigadier-General of the First Brigade. While yet commanding the First Regiment of Iowa National Guards, he led a battalion of his troops to Washington, D. C., and participated in the inaugural parade when President Benjamin Harrison was inducted into office, a distinction that Iowa never enjoyed before or since. He still lives to enjoy the country he helped to save. He is now, and for many years has been, at the head of the Money Order Department of the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, post office, where he lives, at 620 First Avenue.

166. HANNAH FRANCES (COWDEN) BAKER, C. 18, b. Jan. 1, 1848.

167. SAMUEL WILLIAM OWENS BAKER, C. 18, b. Feb. 15, 1854. Mr. and Mrs. Baker live in Bellwood, Pennsylvania. He is a carpenter and employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for many years. He instructs and leads the choir in the Methodist Episcopal Church, where they worship.

*168. CATHARINE (SMITH) CULGAN, C. 21, b. —; d. —.

*169. MR. — CULGAN, C. 21, b. —; d. —.

*170. JANE (SMITH) GOIST, C. 21, b. —; d. about 1899.

*171. JACOB GOIST, C. 21, b. —; d. about 1899. These two sisters, Catharine and Jane, were the only offsprings of Ann Allen, the eldest child of Catherine (Cowden) and Joseph Gilliland. Their parents both died when they were very young, and they grew up in the home of their grandparents. Both married, but neither bore any children. Jane and her husband had moved to Wills County, Illinois. They are remembered as having made visits back to Pennsylvania, the last not long before they both died, which is believed to have been about 1899. My only informant is Miss Bertha V. Gilliland, New Bloomfield, Pennsylvania.

*172. JAMES COWDEN GILLILAND, C. 21, b. Sept. 13, 1842; d. Nov. 29, 1913.

*173. ANGIE P. (GARDINER) GILLILAND, C. 21, b. Mar. 10, 1843; d. Sept. 27, 1891.

174. NANNIE MITCHELL (CAMPBELL) GILLILAND, C. 21, b. April 15, 1862. Address, Oak Hall Station, Pennsylvania. Concerning this man, his surviving widow says: "He was an elder in the Presbyterian Church, and so was actively engaged in work for his fellowmen. 'He lived in a house by the side of the road, and was a friend of man.' As the weeks and the months go by, I do so much miss his prayers and the influence of their father upon my young family. . . . The children are a comfort and a joy to me." What a tribute to the memory of a godly man!

*175. JANE ALICE (GILLILAND) LECHLER, C. 21, b. May 24, 1845. Address, Bellefonte, Pennsylvania.

*176. HAMMON LECHLER, C. 21, b. Jan. 25, 1841. Address, Bellefonte, Pennsylvania. Occupation, grocer.

*177. MARGARET CATHARINE GILLILAND, C. 21, b. June 23, 1853; d. Sept. 24, 1853.

*178. MARY JOHNSTON (GILLILAND) KELLEY, C. 22, b. June 18, 1822; d. Feb. 13, 1908.

*179. SMITH KELLEY, C. 22, b. Nov. 1, 1818; d. Dec. 13, 1884.

*180. CATHARINE COWDEN (GILLILAND) CORBETT, C. 22, b. July 30, 1824. Lives at Franklin, Pennsylvania, and gets mail at 619 Elk Street.

*181. ISALAH CORBETT, C. 22, b. —; d. June 18, 1888. Mrs. Corbett is our oldest living member, and is still quite active on her feet, and "is as bright, mentally, as ever she was." See her cut on another page, also her kindly greeting to you all. How good of her to send it!

*182. MARGARET IRVINE (GILLILAND) ALEXANDER, C. 22, b. Sept. 16, 1826; d. June 14, 1852.

*183. JOHN J. ALEXANDER, C. 22, b. —; d. —.

*184. WILLIAM KERR GILLILAND, C. 22, b. Mar. 11, 1828; d. Dec. 17, 1907.

*185. NANCY (FOSTER) GILLILAND, C. 22, b. July 3, 1830; d. Dec. 8, 1893. This Mr. Gilliland was a Justice of the Peace and a surveyor. His son, Cyrus A. Gilliland, of Oil City, Pennsylvania, says of him: "He was a great man to delve into family history, and was authority in the neighborhood where he lived. He kept a diary covering a period of fifty years, and was often called into court as a witness on account of the accurate record he had of past events."

*186. JOSEPH SPEER GILLILAND, C. 22, b. Mar. 11, 1830; d. Jan. 23, 1853.

*187. — (—) GILLILAND, C. 22, b. — : d. —. "This Mr. Gilliland," says his nephew, Mr. A. C. Gilliland, of Oil City, Pennsylvania, "went to Illinois, when a young man, and married there, but I am unable to give the name of his wife. They had one child, but the wife and child preceded him to the grave."

*188. JOHN MCCHESENEY GILLILAND, C. 22, b. Mar. 29, 1832; d. Aug. 1, 1910.

189. HATTIE (SLOAN) GILLILAND, C. 22, b. Apr. 7, 1839. Her address is Newberg, Oregon. Mr. Gilliland, whose name is before us, served in the Union army to preserve the United States from disruption by its foes. Says Hon. F. F. Canon, Assistant Adjutant-General of California, under date of October 29, 1914, "John M. Gilliland was a private of Company G, 7th Infantry, California Volunteers, War of the Rebellion. He enlisted at Placerville, California, for a period of three years. He was mustered into the service on October 30, 1864, at Placerville, and mustered out with the company at the Presidio of San Francisco on June 28, 1865." His cut will appear on another page of this volume with other comrades.

*190. ANN KATHARINE (SANKEY) SPEARLY, C. 23, b. Mar. 2, 1829; d. Oct. 25, 1887.

191. CHARLES SPEARLY, C. 23, b. Dec. 31, 1840. Address, Bellefonte, Pa. Mr. Spearly is a native of Germany.

*192. JOHN GILLILAND SANKEY, C. 23, b. Nov. 18, 1830; d. Apr. 2, 1886.

*203. LYDIA A. (RUNKLE) SANKEY, C. 23, b. Jan. 10, 1844; d. Oct. 12, 1904.

204. JOSEPH COWDEN SANKEY, C. 23, b. Nov. 28, 1845. Probably the greatest surprise this book will give to any one will be the revelation here and now made. Joseph Cowden Sankey, so long lost to his family and friends, had the longest record of service under arms of any of our number. Having tried out to a finish every other line, in his effort to locate him, the writer appealed finally to the United States Pension Bureau, and thus secured his address. The following letter from him tells the story of his life and service:

"U. S. Soldiers' Home, Washington, D. C. Dear Sir: Your letter of the 7th instant., is at hand and I will try to answer the questions that are contained therein. I was born on the twenty-eighth of November, 1845. I never was married. I never served in any volunteer regiment. I did serve in the regular army as follows: My first enlistment was on the fifteenth day of May, 1866. Was assigned to Company F of the Fifth Infantry. Was discharged on the fifteenth day of May, 1869. Re-enlisted on the fifteenth day of January, 1878, and was assigned to Company K, Twenty-first Infantry. Discharged on the fourteenth of January, 1883. Re-enlisted on the twenty-ninth of January, 1883, and was assigned to Company B, Twenty-first Infantry. Discharged on the twenty-eighth day of January, 1888. Re-enlisted on the eighth day of November, 1889, and was assigned to Company C, Twenty-first Infantry. Discharged the thirtieth of April, 1897. Total, twenty years, five months, and fifteen days. My service consisted of frontier warfare, fighting the hostile Indians of the West. Having done my best to answer your questions, I will close, and remain, very respectfully, Joseph Cowden Sankey."

*205. JOSEPH GILLILAND, C. 30, b. —; d. in infancy.

*206. WILLIAM GILLILAND, C. 30, b. —; died in infancy.

*207. JOHN RANKIN GILLILAND, C. 39, b. July 31, 1839; d. Aug. 7, 1907.

*208. IDA (HOLT) GILLILAND, C. 30, b. Dec. 16, 1854; d. July 23, 1876.

*209. SUSAN F. (HOLT) GILLILAND, C. 30, b. Feb. 8, 1849; d. Mar. 1, 1893. Captain John Rankin Gilliland was a soldier, which is more than merely saying that he served in the United States Army of Volunteers in the War for the Union, or any other war. That he was a captain or any other grade of officer counted for naught if he was not, first of all, a soldier. The statement by the Adjutant-General of the State of Pennsylvania is to the effect that he was mustered in as Captain of Company G, 51st Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry on the fifth day of June, 1864, for three years, and that he was then twenty-four years of age, and was discharged October 16, 1864, by reason of expiration of term of service, with an explanatory foot-note, in parenthesis, that he was "Originally enrolled as sergeant, age twenty-two years, September 20, 1861, at Bellefonte, Pennsylvania. Mustered in, October 17, 1861, at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Promoted and commissioned captain, March 17, 1864, by Gov. A. G. Curtin. Mustered out, June 5, 1864, near Petersburg, Virginia." All this is necessary, but it is but the bony framework of a record. The vital part is in the fact that he was a bold, courageous, intrepid leader of his men. This was shown by the fact that at the battle of Antietam his company was the first to cross the bridge, and that he was the foremost man of the company. When President Lincoln was shot in Ford's Theatre, while others were stunned and terrified by the audacity of the crime, he was one of the first to spring upon the platform, where he picked up the spur of the fleeing assassin. During the Civil War he was in twenty-three battles, and rose from Sergeant to Second Lieutenant, to First Lieutenant, and then to Captain. In modern phrase, that was "going some." Yes, there are soldiers and soldiers.

CHAPTER VI.

At twenty, love doth swell his veins,
Yet, heifer-like, untamed remains.

With bull-like strength to smite his foes,
At thirty to the field he goes.

At forty, naught his courage quails,
But lion-like, by force prevails.

affairs. When he was yet but thirty-six years old, he was made judge of Schuyler County, Missouri, which office he held six years. It is said that, in that new border section of the State, society was more or less disorderly, as is often the case under similar conditions, and although he was not specially educated for the law, he was believed to be the man who could suppress the lawless and restore peaceful conditions, hence his appointment; and the result justified his selection. He is now president of the State Central Savings Bank, Keokuk, Iowa, and president of the Iowa State Insurance Company, and of the Gate City Printing Company, publishers of the Daily and the Weekly Gate City Keokuk, Iowa. In company with two other gentlemen he secured, in 1905, from Congress, a franchise for damming the Mississippi River at Keokuk, and, under that franchise, the Mississippi River Power Company was organized, in which he is a director. It is said to be the largest water power company in the world, and is very successful in its operation.

CHAPTER VIII.

And they were bringing unto him little children, that he should touch them: and the disciples rebuked them.

But when Jesus saw it, he was moved with indignation, and said unto them, Suffer the little children to come unto me; forbid them not: for to such belongeth the kingdom of God. Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall in no wise enter therein. And he took them in his arms, and blessed them, laying his hands upon them.—Mark 10: 13-16. R. V.

Conclusion

Usually the last words written into a book are seen in the author's preface, but in that respect at least, this will be an exception. The work now in the hand of the reader could not have been produced without the aid of many persons. In many instances, members of the same family had been so long and so widely separated as to be lost to each other. In such cases, county offices were consulted, Grand Army posts were inquired of, Adjutants-General of a number of States were appealed to, and the records of the Bureau of Pensions searched. Uniformly, such inquiries were kindly and sympathetically responded to, and generally led to the discovery of what was desired. A number of Bibles, containing valuable family records, had been destroyed by fire and could not be restored by any one now living. Among those most helpful, because most frequently called on, were Mrs. Catharine Hamsher (Gilliland) Wingate, of Washington City; William Bennett Bowles, Arnett, Oklahoma; William Logan, of Keokuk, Iowa; Mrs. Mary H. (Barnes) Fritz, of Barberton, Ohio; Mrs. Phebe C. (Logan) Noble, of Carthage, Ill.; Mrs. Hannah F. (Cowden) Baker, of Bellwood, Pa.; Mrs. Isabel (Gilliland) Wright, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Mrs. Evaline J. (Sankey) Bell, of Bellefonte, Pa.; Miss Alda J. Sankey, of Burnham, Pa.; Joseph Hudson Sankey, of Lock Haven, Pa.; Cyrus A. Gilliland, of Oil City, Pa.; Mrs. Nannie C. M. Gilliland, of Oak Hall Station, Pa., and the Misses Margaret N., Bertha V., and Nellie B. Gilliland, of New Bloomfield, Pa., and New York City. More than a score of others could be named, to all of whom I am most grateful. I have also drawn from the pages of "Kith and Kin of the Cowden and Welch Families," by Rev. James Marcus Welch, of Indiana, Pennsylvania, very valuable material, including the Cowden coat-of-arms, and to him my thanks are extended. The Gilliland coat-of-arms was furnished by the Misses Gilliland, named above, and from the same, through L. J. Gilliland, of Curwensville, Pennsylvania, the poem, "Willie Gilliland."

Of the twelve hundred and eighty-four persons whose names are enrolled in this book, only three hundred and fifty-four are dead, and nine hundred and thirty still abide with us. If we had the records of the six daughters of William Cowden (1), the ancestor, along with that of the only son, Robert (1), we would have probably nine thousand as the fruit of one man in but little more than two hundred years.

And now, farewell. In the hope of blissful immortality, I am your cousin, comrade, companion, and friend,

THE AUTHOR.
